OPEN SOURCE MUSIC

FM SYNTH CHALLENGE

The Open Source Music FM Synthesizer Challenge

2018

https://fmchallenge.osamc.de/

The Challenge

„Create a track using any of the selected Open Source FM Synthesizers and publish it on Archive.org under a Creative Commons License and enter the competition until the 15th October 2018."

https://fmchallenge.osamc.de/rules/

The Process

- One month submission period
- Ten days voting period
- All can vote
- Winners presented at Sonoj Convention (published on web site later today)

The FM Synths

6PM
ADLplug
Dexed
DX10 (MDA)
Hexter
JuceOPLVSTi
OpulenZ
Oxe FM Synth

The Prizes

- First place wins a MOD Duo from MOD Devices.
- Second and Third place each win a license for Cadmium by LHI Audio.
- One voter selected by draw also wins a Cadmium license.

https://fmchallenge.osamc.de/prizes/

MOD Duo

The MOD Labs

- MOD Devices invites developers to join the MOD Labs: https://www.moddevices.com/community/modlabs
- Open-source plugin development, Arduino-based hardware creation and beta tester program
- An environment for software and hardware development and experimentation
- Invite-only area for certified community members to develop and test new ideas for new products

Cadmium

The Results

- Fifteen entries
- 49 voters
  15 points from each (5 points to favourite entry, 4 points to second, 3 to third, and so on…)
- Entries received from 9 to 122 points.
- Winning entry has clear margin of 34 points.

And the Third Place goes to...

Third Place

„C18H25NO"

by Lilith 93

(83 Points)

And the Second Place goes to...

Second Place

„End of the Desert"
by J.Ruegg
(88 Points)

And the Winner is...

First Place

„Bodacious“
by unfa
(122 Points)

Total score per competition entry

Voters Prize Draw

What Now

- Winners are notified
- Results published on web site later today
- Spread the Word and the Music!
  Tweets, Blogs, Podcasts, Playlists, Preset Packs
- Check out the DAW projects and plugin presets
- Enjoy the Music!

See you in 2019 for the next Open Source Music Challenge...?